Professional Development Training Course Outline

Category	Project Management	Duration	5 Days
Base Fee	$3,000 USD	Delivery Mode	Online / On-site Hybrid

Course Introduction

Emotional Intelligence for Project Management Leaders is a critical capability in today’s complex, high-pressure, and people-driven project environments. Emotional Intelligence for Project Management Leaders Training Course focuses on developing self-awareness, self-regulation, empathy, motivation, and social skills that directly influence leadership effectiveness, team performance, stakeholder engagement, and project success. By integrating emotional intelligence with modern project management practices, leaders can enhance decision-making, communication, conflict resolution, and resilience across the full project lifecycle. The course aligns emotional intelligence competencies with leadership agility, change management, and high-performance project delivery.

The course emphasizes practical application of emotional intelligence tools in real-world project settings, including cross-functional teams, virtual environments, multicultural contexts, and high-stakes stakeholder relationships. Participants will learn how emotional intelligence strengthens leadership credibility, reduces project risk, improves collaboration, and drives sustainable outcomes. Through structured learning, reflective exercises, and case studies, project leaders will gain the skills needed to manage emotions—both their own and others’—to deliver projects on time, within scope, and with strong stakeholder satisfaction.
