Course Introduction

Gender and Institutional Reform Training Course is designed to equip policymakers, organizational leaders, and practitioners with advanced knowledge and practical tools to integrate gender equality and social inclusion into institutional frameworks. This course emphasizes transformative strategies, evidence-based policymaking, and innovative governance models to foster equitable and inclusive institutions. Participants will gain expertise in understanding systemic gender barriers, reforming institutional policies, and promoting organizational accountability. Through immersive case studies and interactive learning, this course ensures that participants can translate theory into impactful action for sustainable institutional reform.

This program leverages global best practices and cutting-edge methodologies to address gender disparities in public and private sector institutions. Participants will explore the intersections of gender, power, and governance, acquiring competencies in inclusive policy design, gender-sensitive leadership, and structural reform processes. By the end of the course, learners will be capable of driving institutional change that aligns with global gender equity agendas, including SDG 5 on gender equality and broader social inclusion frameworks.
