Professional Development Training Course Outline

Category	CEOs and Directors	Duration	5 Days
Base Fee	$1,500 USD	Delivery Mode	Online / On-site Hybrid

Course Introduction

In today's dynamic and often unpredictable landscape, organizations increasingly face unprecedented challenges ranging from economic downturns and natural disasters to internal crises and collective loss. These events can inflict profound organizational trauma, leading to widespread grief, diminished productivity, and a breakdown of trust. Effective leadership during such critical periods is not merely about crisis management; it demands a deep understanding of psychological safety, emotional intelligence, and resilient leadership. Training Course on Leadership in Times of Organizational Trauma and Grief is meticulously designed to equip leaders with the essential skills, strategic frameworks, and compassionate approaches needed to navigate organizational trauma and grief, fostering healing, rebuilding trust, and ultimately strengthening the organization's long-term resilience and well-being.

Navigating the aftermath of significant organizational upheaval requires a new paradigm of leadership; one that prioritizes empathy, transparent communication, and collective healing. Traditional leadership models often fall short in addressing the complex emotional and psychological toll that trauma and grief exact on employees and the entire organizational culture. This program focuses on developing trauma-informed leadership, empowering participants to create psychologically safe environments, facilitate healthy grieving processes, and guide their teams towards post-traumatic growth. By mastering these critical competencies, leaders will not only mitigate the negative impacts of adversity but also cultivate a more compassionate, cohesive, and robust workforce capable of thriving amidst future challenges.

Course Duration

5 days

Course Objectives

1. Develop a deep understanding of trauma's impact on individuals and organizations, adopting a "what happened to you?" rather than "what's wrong with you?" mindset.
2. Implement transparent, empathetic, and timely communication strategies during periods of organizational crisis and collective grief.
3. Create environments where employees feel safe to express emotions, share experiences, and engage in vulnerable conversations without fear of reprisal.
4. Enhance self-awareness, self-regulation, empathy, and social skills to effectively support grieving and traumatized employees.
5. Develop proactive strategies to strengthen the organization's capacity to absorb, adapt to, and recover from adverse events.
6. Understand the stages of grief and implement supportive mechanisms for individuals and teams experiencing loss within the workplace.
7. Prioritize holistic employee well-being through stress management, mental health support, and work-life integration initiatives.
8. Guide teams through periods of uncertainty and change by embracing flexibility, learning, and continuous adaptation.
9. Rebuild and enhance team dynamics, trust, and collaboration in the wake of disruptive events.
10. Identify opportunities for positive transformation and growth following periods of significant adversity.
11. Practice authentic care, understanding, and support for employees facing personal and collective challenges.
12. Equip leaders with strategies to recognize and address burnout and secondary trauma in themselves and their teams.
13. Initiate and sustain cultural shifts towards a more empathetic, supportive, and resilient organizational ethos.
